

When it's time to be milked, the cows are led to the milking parlor. The milk is gently taken from their udders and put into a big tank where it is cooled. A single cow can give as much as 90 to 120 glasses of milk a day.